REC. (unc): BUY TARGET (unc): C$11.00/sh RISK RATING (unc): HIGH

While gains and losses are expected on infill, Valley stands out with remarkable consistency vs peer projects, evident today with a) grades in line (or better) with the block model and b) excellent downhole continuity – noting today's headliner 352m @ 1.2g/t sees maintained grades at modest 10g/t capping, speaking to low variability and uniform grade distribution across the mineralization (vs more nuggetty shear-hosted lode gold peers). Key take home for us today is the remarkable 166m @ 2.1g/t hit within 352m @ 1.2g/t from surface further defining the high-grade core and supporting resource conversion for the next MRE update – overall positive given the core is the primary driver of economics and ultimately the payback of the project in our valuation. Bottom line – de-risking Valley remains a key priority, with >11,600m pending assay for news flow into 2025 and potential flyers on new targets generated this year primed for testing next year. As such, we maintain our BUY rating and our C$11.00/sh PT based on a high-grade starter pit with ~560koz pa in Y1-5 at ~US$441/oz AISC (SCPe >C$800m FCF pa), averaging ~340kozpa LOM, driving our C$4.2bn NAV_{5%-2000}, implying a FD 1xNAV ~C$25/sh value for SGD. Valley is among the few remaining large gold assets globally to 'check the boxes' on grade, size, simple metallurgy and growth potential. With a strong $50m cash position and the team's track record of discovery we think Snowline will continue to capture market visibility in 2025.

Wrapping up the year: 166m @ 2.1g/t from surface infills high-grade core 'gap' nicely at Valley

Today, Snowline reported seven infill/extension holes from Valley highlighted by 351.6m @ 1.2g/t (incl. 166.1m @ 2.1g/t) from surface within a 130m gap section and 356.0m @ 1.1g/t (incl. 102.0m @ 2.1g/t) from surface on the NE boundary of drilling. Additionally, results for regional target Jupiter (2 holes) hit 0.8-1.5m @ 0.3-3.3g/t from 54-363m down-hole. Assays are pending for >11,600m (29 holes) with results to be incorporated in an a future MRE update.

Why we like Snowline Gold

- 1. Management track record with two greenfield discoveries in <12 months
- 2. Valley pit-constrained resource 7.3Moz @ 1.45g/t supports SCPe ~7.1Moz inventory @ 1.42g/t
- 3. High-grade starter pit: 2.9Moz @ 2.35g/t at <1:1 implied strip drives payback
- 4. Scarcity value on >400-500koz pa production potential
- 5. Potential 'same again' flyer on greenfield intrusive targets

6. Fully funded 2024 drill programme across the portfolio

Catalysts

- CY24: 18,000m drill programme at Valley and Jupiter + regional targets
- SCPe 2H24/1H25: Valley resource update
